Area Roundup

Rockdale Plans Big Rodeo

ROCKDALE
Rockdale's big three-day Western Jubilee Days Rodeo, sponsored by the local Roping and Cutting Club, will be held June 7-8-9 at Fair Park Arena with performances at 8 p.m. nightly. On Thursday, June 7, eight trail rides will arrive from various points and parade through the downtown section at 5 p.m. to Fair Park where the riders will be treated to a barbecue supper.

Georgetown Faces Power Crisis

GEORGETOWN
Georgetown is facing a power crisis this summer as the power plant faces a shortage of natural gas. The city council has asked the citizens of Georgetown to be inconvenienced so as to prevent a "catastrophe." In other words, everyone is asked to use electrical power with the utmost discrimination, only that which is necessary in plants, businesses and homes. In turn, the city has promised to cut its own usage.

Convicted Murderer To Return

HEARNE
Convicted murderer, John E. Swift is being returned to Texas to face an appeals court in connection with the slaying of Jack Kelly following an overturn of a murder conviction in Oklahoma. Swift, who was convicted of the Oklahoma murder of Robert Duran, was serving a life term in a state penitentiary. His sentence was overturned when a higher court ruled his constitutional rights had been violated when he was ruled guilty by an 11-man jury.

Blood Donors Sought

CALDWELL
Over 100 persons are needed as blood donors in connection with a kidney transplant operation for Marshall Duwall of Caldwell. A local effort has been mounted to get local volunteers to give blood which will be needed for the operation. Transportation will be furnished to take donors to Ben Taub Hospital in Houston where the blood will be given and processed. Tentative arrangements have been made for Marshall to receive a kidney transplant from his mother.

County Asks Gas Priorities

WACO
McLennan County Commissioners have voted to ask the Heart of Texas Council of Governments to urge Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the Texas Railroad Commission to set gasoline priorities for all counties, cities and school districts. The county will get no more than 4 percent more gas this year and that won't be enough, commissioners indicated.

50,000 Pound 'Cat' Caught

ROSEBUD
It took two men and one small boy to "catch" a 50,000 pound yellow "cat" in a small lake located near Baileyville on the Charles Ellison ranch last weekend. The cat was a bulldozer that had gotten stuck after the tank was dug, and torrential rains filled the lake before the bulldozer could be removed. Efforts to raise the cat took some two days and many cables, plus the help of "Old Sally," a faithful old winch truck.

Milam Listed 'Hunger County' By Senate Group

Milam County is one of 67 Texas counties listed as "hunger counties" in the Hunger 1973 report of the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs. Milam is listed as one of 13 of the 67 that are repeater counties from the Hunger USA report of 1968.

The statistics were listed in "Texas Weekly News" of May 25.

"Hunger counties" are those which are both high in poverty and low in food program participation. For the 1973 report, counties were considered high in poverty if 25 percent or more of the population had incomes below the poverty line (US 1970 Census information was used.)

A county's participation in food programs was "low" if 33 percent or less of the poor participated in a federally funded food program.

Statistics for Milam County showed 29 percent of the population in poverty, according to government standards, and 31 percent of those poor receiving federal food assistance.

According to County Judge O. B. Harden, who released the report to The Herald, the percentage of persons receiving food in the food program reflects the fact that when Social Security payments were last raised, a large number of the elderly, of which Milam County has many, were declared non-eligible to participate in the food program.

The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) has issued a set of guidelines which shows that the poverty line is reached by families of 4 at or below the wage of $4200 while for families of seven the line is at $6200.

Poverty statistics from the April 1970 census show that of the county's 19,845 persons, some 5728 are listed as poor, including all ethnic groups. Some 341 families in that group received public assistance while 465 received social security and RR retirement.

3 Herald Staffers Take New Posts

Three Herald staff members have been promoted to new assignments.

Mrs. Clydell Seaton, former production manager, has been named office manager, succeeding Miss Pam Mitcham who is getting married in June.

Succeeding Mrs. Seaton is Mrs. Elaine Bastow, who will head newspaper composition and direct circulation accounting.

And James Barrett, a member of the Herald production and distribution staff for eight years, has been named Milam area circulation manager.

Announcement was made by Frank M. Luecke, Herald editor-publisher.

County To Join New State Radio System

Milam County Commissioners Thursday morning voted to join the radio communications program that will be set up for law enforcement all over the state.

Cost to the county will be $9,113.10. That is the county's share of the costs, with the Criminal Justice Council paying the balance. The program is being sponsored by the Central Texas Council of Governments.

The program will consist of installing new equipment for law enforcement offices and cars, placing them on a new frequency all over the state.

Retiring Teachers Look Back Over 'Satisfying Years'

Miss Lois Randolph and Mrs. Merle Hickman stood together for a retirement picture Thursday afternoon and reminisced about another picture made together - a C. H. Yoe High School graduation picture, class of 1928.

Between the two pictures have come more than 2,800 elementary school students during a combined 87 years of teaching.

"I don't think there is a more satisfying career than teaching, especially for a woman," Miss Randolph said Thursday. "Six of my former students have become successful lawyers (three of those from her years at the Hoyte Community school). It has been exciting to follow their careers."

For Mrs. Hickman each new class has been a challenge. "I am going to enjoy my retirement," Mrs. Hickman said, "but I've loved teaching. It is almost heartbreaking to think about not being with the children again."

Both teachers started their professional career in rural schools shortly after high school graduation. Continuing education came in summer vacations. Miss Randolph capped her education with a masters degree from the University of Houston and Mrs. Hickman gained a masters degree from Baylor University.

Rural Milam County schools gave practical experience.

Miss Randolph taught at Curry, Bryant Station and Hoyt before joining the Cameron school faculty in 1950. At one time she and two of her sisters (Miss Mary Randolph and Mrs. Vance Werner) taught together at Ben Milam School. Another sister who lives in Calvert is also a former elementary school teacher.

Mrs. Hickman taught school in Blanco, Ben Arnold, Jones Prairie and Sharp before coming into the Cameron schools in 1947.

Both teachers agree that teaching methods have changed greatly since their early years in one room schools, but children have changed

Evenhandedness In Law

We gather from Atty-Gen. John Hill's remarks the other day he wants even handed public service in his tenure.

That is, he wants to protect the consumer, re his columns which appear in this newspaper, and he also wants strong law enforcement, re his statements to the Central Texas Peace Officers Assoc. in Cameron.

He said he wants the "thrust of my office in enforcement."

This pleased his audience of law officers and court officials who are obligated to carry out the law in the field, which is both more complicated and dangerous. Ten percent of the law enforcement deaths in the U.S. last year were Texans, who comprise only 5 percent of the population.

Evenhandedness is what justice is about. It is also difficult to achieve. General Hill's remarks cite the pendulum's swinging back to center for stronger law enforcement, indeed its necessity in populated areas. But the day of one element of justice having decided advantage is past: the judiciary weighs evidence beyond emotion of a case, from either side.

This requires the better law enforcement officer, advocated by General Hill, and measured evaluation by judge or jury in the courtroom.

Justice is best served by fair dealing in able law enforcement and jurisprudence. General Hill urges both, it seems.

Safer U. S. Flying

It is interesting how increased inspection of persons and luggage prior to jet boarding has all but stopped jet hijacking in the U. S.

A surcharge is added to the passenger ticket to pay for this service, but it is indeed worth it to air travelers.

A Columbian airliner hijacked the other day, having been taken to the Caribbean island of Aruba and on to the other unknown destination.

Destination for a lot of passengers in this country the past two years has been Havana. But that is stopped.

There is still the possibility of an air crash, remote by most standards, like the Indian airline that went down the other day with 54 aboard.

But the air hijacking era is about past, unless some smart provocateur goes past the metallic testing stations with plastic explosive and string fuses which would be a bit harder to detect in clothing or luggage.

It's a lot safer flying, particularly in the Southeast U.S. than a year ago.

Gale-Swept Iceland Base Keeps Watch On Soviets

By Robert Evans

KEFLAVIK, ICELAND
Reuter -- From this gale-swept volcanic peninsula on the southwest tip of Iceland, U. S. air patrols continue to maintain round-the-clock surveillance on the movements of Soviet submarines in the strategic North Atlantic.

Some 3,200 men of the U.S. Navy and Air Force man the Keflavik base, composing the Iceland defense force established under the 1951 agreement signed by the two governments at the height of the cold war between east and west.

But today -- as tension between the western and communist camps continues to ease -- there is growing feeling among many strategists that bases like Keflavik have a declining role in the security system of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In the first years of its existence, the base was a key link in a chain set up by NATO to contain what was seen in the west as the communist threat. Planes based at Keflavik could monitor any movement out of the Soviet fleet's northern headquarters in Murmansk.

In recent years, with the development of sophisticated sonar detection devices, patrol aircraft from Keflavik have concentrated on plotting the movements of Soviet submarines as they moved out of Murmansk towards southern Europe, North America and the Caribbean.

However, some western defense experts feel that even this is no longer such a vital task in an age when both east and west have clearly recognized that neither could hope to emerge victorious from any nuclear conflict.

Inside Iceland itself, there has always been a section of opinion on both the extreme left and the extreme right opposing the existence of the base, and the present liberal-leftist coalition government has pledged to have the U. S. forces out by 1975.

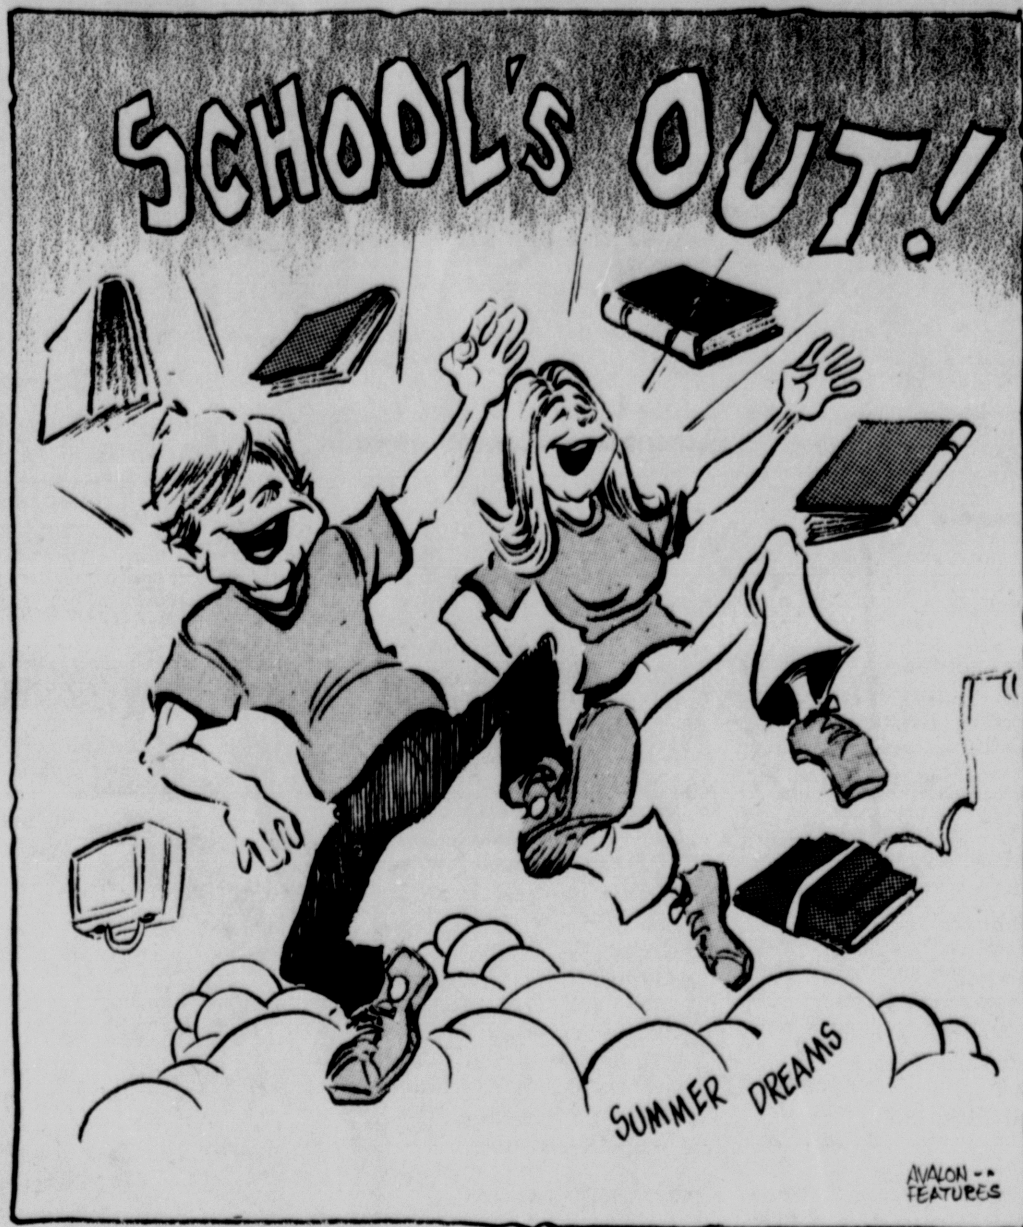

Right-wing nationalists feel that the presence of a large number of Americans so close to the capital at Reykjavik only 30 miles away would have a corrosive effect on Icelandic culture and national identity.

The Icelandic left fought the base on the grounds that it would make the country of 208,000 people a prime target in any war between east and west. Today the Peoples Alliance Party, which is largely communist but has a strong nationalist tinge, uses both arguments.

U.S. officials have been conscious of the negative feelings a large American presence could arouse in a small nation and U. S. military personnel are rarely seen in Reykjavik. They live largely on the base which has extensive recreational facilities.

The purpose of the base, according to the 1951 agreement, was "to preserve peace and security in the North Atlantic Treaty area -- having regard to the fact that the people of Iceland cannot themselves adequately secure their own defenses."

Gov. Briscoe Says No To Special Session Requests

By Bill Boykin

The 63rd Legislature's failure to agree on even a stopgap aid to education revision set off repeated demands from House members for a special session.

Speaker Price Daniel Jr. joined in the chorus, calling on the House Education Committee to "prepare, polish and refine" a school finance bill "for legislative action no later than September 15."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who holds the key to whether or not there is going to be a special session on anything, made clear -- twice in writing -- that he doesn't plan to call one.

Daniel said his instructions to the Education Committee were offered just in case Briscoe reconsiders his position.

The Committee will begin a series of hearings on school finance here June 18. More than 700 of the 1,149 school districts are in financial trouble, according to Committee chairman Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale.

Briscoe set in motion new studies to develop information for specific legislative proposals in 1975 to equalize educational finances and opportunities. A special session at this time would be "premature," said the Governor, since necessary data cannot be assembled for another two years.

Daniel and others claim the problem of financial inequities among the school districts already has been "studied to death," and that the House had the answer in H.B. 946 last month.

But Briscoe feels proposals before the Legislature this year would "have only added to the present system of programs and budget with no review of current spending or effectiveness." He said he hopes the new study can produce an "educational approach that we can afford (without new taxes), as well as one that will meet the needs of the future."

PETRY HONORED -- The Governor, four former governors, legislators, office holders -- who's who in Texas -- honored Herbert C. Petry Jr., Carrizo Springs, last week for serving 18 1/2 years as a State Highway Commissioner.

Petry, who goes off the Highway Commission at the end of this term, has served longer than any other Texan on that important governmental body.

While he was lauded for his public service, speakers encouraged his neighbor at Uvalde, Gov. Dolph Briscoe, to make a place for him in Texas public service -- and a "balloon went up" for Petry as Director of Transportation for the United States.

Petry said "thousands of people had better jobs and better incomes in Texas as a result of the state's efforts to build an adequate highway system to attract new industries and encourage expansion of industries."

Several presentations were made by present and former highway commissioners, Highway Department officials and employees, Good Roads Association and the man who appointed him to his first term on the Commission, Gov. Allan Shivers. A film strip was presented on his career, including sections about his worldwide career as the youngest president of Lions International 1951.

REFORM MEASURES -- Lobby control, code of ethics and campaign finance disclosure legislation passed in closing hours of the 63rd Legislature's regular session. While none of the bills were as strict as the original House version, all were viewed by advocates as an improvement over present laws.

All filings and financial disclosure under all three bills will be with the secretary of state.

The public access to information act is viewed as the best law of its kind in the country. Governor Briscoe earlier signed H.B. 3 to strengthen the open meetings law.

LEGISLATIVE OUTPUT -- Legislative output was down considerably this year over 1971, although some contended the 63rd Legislature came to grips with more monumental problems than the last.

A total of 688 bills was passed by the 63rd, compared with 1,067 by the 62nd in their 140-day regular session.

A total of 2,746 bills was introduced, together with 97 proposed constitutional amendments.

Three hundred Senate bills and 388 House bills were passed, as were two proposed amendments to the constitution introduced in the House and seven introduced in the Senate.

COURTS SPEAK -- the State Supreme Court refused to back Gulf Oil Corporation's claim that its 45,771-acre lease in Crane County of the Permian Basin should be extended 4,661 days due to lost production resulting from Railroad Commission proration orders. The lease will expire July 14, 1975.

In other recent action, the Court held:

-- A common law wife can't collect insurance benefits when she isn't using a man's name.

He said of this number 95 suffered no losses and 35 reported light to heavy losses in the areas near Milano, Thorndale, Janes Prairie and Davilla.

The federal government, under pressure from ecology groups, passed legislation stopping the use of cyanide traps to control coyotes and wolves.

McCutchen said the survey showed about 146 calves lost to predators. The survey was sponsored by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

He added that a conservative estimate of damages by predators in the county amounted to $35,000.

He said that some farmers said they would raise sheep and goats in the county if they didn't have to bring them in each night for protection from coyotes.

The animals have been spotted in farm yards, and even come up to the steps and eat dog food put out. "When you see them roving in the daytime, you know they are hungry," McCutchen said.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control..."

Texas Power & Light Company has a long, solid history of providing its customers with reliable electric power at the lowest price consistent with good service. The Company wants electricity to always be one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

However, there are circumstances beyond our control which indicate future electric rate increases are inevitable.

Higher Cost of Fuels The diminishing supply of natural gas and fuel oil has pushed the prices of these generating plant fuels to new highs and is significantly increasing the cost of producing electricity. TP&L's fuel bill was over $40 million last year, 30% higher than in 1971, and it's expected to be even higher in 1973.

Higher Cost of Construction Because of today's energy crisis, new generating plants must be built to operate with other fuels, such as lignite and nuclear materials. These plants are much more costly to build than gas-fueled ones, but to assure you an ample supply of electric power in the future, construction of new facilities is essential -- and must be done even though TP&L faces additional rising costs for labor, materials and land.

Higher Cost of Financing The rising cost of money needed to finance new plants and other facilities has been increasing at a staggering rate.

All of these circumstances are beyond our control -- and they make producing your electricity much costlier than ever before. However, TP&L will continue to use every practical method and every possible efficiency to keep the price of electricity low and still provide you with dependable electric service in the years ahead.

Black Market Thrives On Archaeological Finds

By Ozgen Acar

ANKARA, Turkey (Reuters) -- Smuggling Archaeological finds has become such a big business in Turkey that rival gangs are fighting over valuable pieces.

For the first time competition between the major rings has led to gunbattles and murder and officials admit that smuggling has now reached alarming proportions.

Turkey has long been a treasure house for archaeologists. This historic land has some 3,000 known classical sites, 20,000 mounds and inhabited caves and 10,000 monuments dating back to pre-hittite days.

Relics from Greek, Roman, Selcuk and Ottoman civilizations are littered over this sprawling country. "We have more than we can handle, more than we can possibly excavate," one Ankara archaeologist admitted.

Turks share the western world's fascination with archaeology. Villagers -- some of them equipped with secretly - imported metal detectors -- scour the countryside for antiquities.

Their interest is not always aesthetic. Some villagers -- mostly in the Aegean region that used to be known as Asia Minor -- earn more from selling antiquities to smugglers than from farming.

But they receive only a fraction of the price the objects fetch on the booming international black market in stolen or smuggled antiquities.

The market is no longer satisfied with small artefacts such as coins and jewelry, which can be taken out of the country in a handbag. Now there is even a demand for seemingly immovable objects such as stone sarcophagi (monumental tombs).

In April, Turkish police claimed to have broken a ring which specialized in smuggling Greek and Roman sarcophagi.

They tracked the gang down after broken pieces of a sarcophagus depicting the labors of Hercules were found in a truck during a routine traffic search in Istanbul.

At the same time police revealed that a man had been shot dead in a gang war near the classical Mediterranean Sea port of side last year.

The two smuggling rings were apparently feuding over a sarcophagus excavated by villagers in the ruins of the abandoned Greek city of Seleucia, police said.

An official at the education ministry, which is responsible for the preservation of historic sites, said that antiquities smuggled out of Turkey in the last 15 years "would fill a large museum to the brim."

Until recently the law provided little encouragement for police tracking down the smugglers -- the maximum fine for smuggling antiquities was the equivalent of only 80 cents.

But legislation enacted this month provides penalties of up to five years imprisonment and fines of $750. The law introduces new regulations governing excavations and the preservation of monuments.

It also states that anyone discovering antiquities must hand them over to the state and will receive up to 35 per cent of the objects value. Officials hope this cash incentive will persuade villagers to deliver their finds to Turkish museums instead of the smugglers.

Class Registration Begins Monday At TSTI

WACO

Registration for four different night courses on the James Connally Campus will begin Monday night.

The courses are: general drafting; blueprint reading; basic video camera and video recording equipment; and automotive electrical systems, tune-up, carburetion and fuel systems.

Registration for the general drafting and blueprint reading courses is slated for 6:30 p.m. in Bldg. 1-5 (West End). Both are 10-week courses scheduled to begin the same night as registration.

Both are credit courses which will run 60 classroom hours. Classes will meet in three-hour sessions twice weekly.

The drafting course is designed to give the student enough drafting knowledge to be able to understand blueprints, to do basic drafting, and to progress on to more advanced courses.

The student taking blueprint reading will learn the kinds of lines and their usage on blueprints, three view drawings and auxiliary views, principals and functions of dimensioning required to interpret drawings. Knowledge of sections, symbols and notes will be acquired and skill in freehand sketching will be attained. Instructor for the course will be Thomas L. Bills.

Basic video camera and video recording equipment registration is set for 6 p.m. upstairs in Bldg. 6-16. Instruction in the 12-week course will begin the same night. Pieter Peterson will teach the course.

The course is designed to give the student a working knowledge of basic television camera techniques. The emphasis is placed on operating the television camera, lighting and maintenance of the camera, video recorder, video cassette recorder and video cassette player.

Registration for automotive electrical systems, tune-up, carburetion and fuel systems is scheduled for 7 p.m. in Bldg. 28-3. This is a 90-hour course which is divided into three segments to run consecutively with 36 hours in automotive electrical systems; 18 hours of automotive tune-up; and 36 hours of carburetion and fuel systems. On Monday, a student may register for the whole 90-hour course, or take each segment individually. It is not required that a student take all three, but the Continuing Education Division advises taking the entire 90 hours.

The course is designed to introduce the fundamentals of automotive electricity, ignition and fuel systems; to develop an understanding of the principles; and to develop and improve skills in diagnosis, service and repair.

For more information, interested persons are asked to call State Tech, Continuing Education, 799-3611, Ext. 263.

OCEAN MOUNTAINS

At least 24 previously unknown underwater mountains, ranging from 3,000 to 5,950 feet above the sea floor, have been discovered in the northeast Pacific.

Tree Cheers

Forest geneticists say today's trees are as primitive as corn was in the year 3000 B.C., with an even greater potential for improvement as a crop.

MRS. JERRY WAYNE LUNDAY

Gooch, Lunday Wed

The First Baptist Church, Pasadena, Texas, was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Miss Sharon Sue Gooch and Mr. Jerry Wayne Lunday on Saturday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. with Rev. Roland Hill officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gooch of Pasadena. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Lunday of Dallas.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of antique style of silk organza and chantilly lace. The gown featured a bouffant hooped skirt with tiers of silk organza bordered with hand clipped lace forming a full cathedral train. The bodice had a Sabrina neckline enhanced with lace and was heavily beaded with seed pearls and mirror crystals. The silk organza lantern sleeves were capped with lace and ended in cuffs at the wrist covered with re-embroidered lace appliques.

The veil of English illusion was an original and was bordered with beaded lace roses and fell to a full cathedral length from a crown of seed pearls, silk organza and encrusted with beaded lace. The bride's bouquet was of deep red roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Peggy Mikulin of La Porte. Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Henry, Miss Dana Johnson and Miss Martha Baggett all of Pasadena. They wore identical floor-length pink silk organza and lace ante-bellum gowns. Each attendant carried an opened pink lace bridal parasol designed with pink sweetheart rosebuds and greenery and a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses tied to the handles.

The groom was attended by his brother, Don Lunday of New Orleans, La., as best man. Groomsmen were Mike Smith of Atlanta, Ga., Dick Houston of Mesquite, Ralph McAninch of Houston. Those serving as ushers were Alan Lane Gooch, brother of the bride and Robin Richards, cousin of the groom.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Joe E. Davidson at the organ and soloists were Mr. Dan Sampson and Miss Virginia Carson.

Lighting for the twilight ceremony was provided by a mass of candles on the altar and down each of the aisles. The altar was centered with an arch of candles entwined with ivy, white satin bows and white doves flanked by a pair of cathedral candelabras which held arrangements of white magnolia blossoms.

A reception was held in the reception room of the church where the tables were decorated with pink cloths and silver appointments. Those in the house party included Mrs. Don Lunday of New Orleans, La., Mrs. Frank Torno of Houston and Miss Debbie Jensen and Miss Rosalyn Hunt of LaPorte.

Mrs. Lunday is a graduate of Sam Rayburn High School, Pasadena, and has been a student at San Jacinto College for the past two years.

Mr. Lunday graduated from W. W. Samuel High School in Dallas and attended Arlington State University and the University of Houston where he was a member of Delta Chi Fraternity.

After a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Lunday will reside in Mesquite where Mr. Lunday is a police officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lunday were hosts for the rehearsal dinner at the Hotel Sonesta in Houston the evening preceding the wedding.

Baylor Orientation Day Set

A bird's eye view of college life awaits those Baylor University incoming freshmen who choose to attend Baylor's first summer orientation session June 15. Prospective Baylor students will have the opportunity to spend a night in a dormitory, see the campus firsthand, meet Baylor summer school students and be advised for fall semester courses.

The program, which is entirely voluntary, begins with 8 a.m. registration in the lobby of Waco Hall on campus. A general meeting for both parents and students is planned for 8:30 a.m. in Waco Hall, and academic advisement for students is next at 9 a.m.

A coffee in the Drawing Room of the Student Union Building from 10 a.m. to noon is designed to aid in answering students' and parents' questions more personally. Baylor professors will be available for discussion.

Parents who accompany their children especially are urged to attend the coffee, where they can find answers to their questions concerning dormitory assignments, Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC), the Honors Program, business office policies, testing, advance placement, food services and other topics.

While their parents are attending the coffee, students may wish to take advantage of a campus tour to become more acquainted with what will become their "home away from home" for the next four years. Tours also will be conducted from 10 a.m. to noon.

Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in either the Penland Hall Cafeteria or the Student Union Bear on campus.

At 1:30 another general meeting for parents and students concerning university services will be held in Waco Hall.

Orientation will be adjourned at 3 p.m.

Rosebush canes trimmed and stapled to a high wood fence are uniquely decorative.

Semitransparent stains will tint wood, but allow the grain to show through.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Ever hunt snow geese with a professional guide? If not, my friend, you've really missed something. Give it a try this season. It's one of the best $25 worth of hunting pleasure you'll ever have.

There are lots of places you can go to hunt in Texas, but certainly none better than the lowlands, the rice-growing areas of the Texas Gulf Coast.

The spine-tingling thrill of seeing hundreds of geese take to the air all at once, completely blocking out the sun or the moon, as the case may be, is a sensation you'll never forget. This sight alone is worth the trip... and the noise of all those flapping wings and cackling geese is unbelievable.

But, there are even more thrills in store for the hunter who goes into the field with a professional guide. You'll learn more from him in one morning than during all of the days you've been out alone.

You don't really have to hire a professional guide to enjoy a successful goose hunt... that is if you know where the geese are and how to bring them into the range of your gun, quickly and easily.

Personally I prefer the easy route. I'm more inclined to pick up the telephone and call Marvin Tyler at Altair, Texas, and let one call do it all—reserve a room, have an excellent place to eat, and above all hunt in one of the nation's choice areas.

Actually Marvin's services have been in such demand and the food at his restaurant so good, that he has employed a dozen or more guides, leased hundreds of acres of fine hunting land, and established a national reputation for successful hunting.

If you're not familiar with the schedule let me tell you. In the first place Altair is about midway between San Antonio and Houston—just a few miles south of Columbus, Texas.

Plan your arrival for late in the afternoon and you'll see numerous geese in the air, within a wide area, around Altair. Your interest perks up and your temperature begins to rise—right then.

You can have a fine dinner at Marvin's restaurant, and talk hunting as late as you wish. But you'd better get your hunting equipment ready on arrival and bed down in time for an early-early (4:30 a.m.) breakfast.

After eating, and long before daylight, load your party and the hunting gear into your car and follow the guide to the spot he has chosen for the morning hunt.

With the guide will be his retriever, his game call, and dozens of old but freshly laundered clean, white towels, pillowcases, bed sheets and pieces of rags. All these must be heavy enough to stay on the ground or over the rice stubble when spread out in the wind, yet light enough to ripple with the breeze.

Ordinarily there are three persons per guide and his minimum fee is $75 per party. However, he will take as many as five or even six if requested.

Hunters and guide spread out the sheets over an area half the size of a football field, or larger, to make it appear from the air to be geese resting on a small pond or rice paddy. To the guide it is known as a white spread.

He supplies a white sheet or white robe for each hunter to wear while on the spread.

Like aeroplanes, geese land into the wind, so (for an early shot at them) the guide places the hunters on that side of the spread—face down.

This means that the wise hunter takes along a tarp on which to lie down. He also wears warm clothing and either waders or hip boots, because the ground is most likely damp if not actually wet. For sure, it's cold—as is the early morning air.

Once all the hunters are stretched out and the snow geese leave their overnight habitat, the guide will often wave a white cloth to attract the attention of the flying geese, again to give the impression of wind-created waves on water.

Then he starts using his goose call, very loud at first, gradually reducing the volume as the snows begin to drop lower and lower for a better looksee.

When convinced it is a pond or a rice paddy, with geese on it, the snow geese will make ready for a landing. When they are well within shooting range the guide will give the okay to fire. No one shoots until he gives the signal.

On call from him, the guide's dog does the retrieving, bringing the geese to his master.

If the weather is bad, foggy or rainy and the clouds are low, consider yourself lucky, for geese fly below the clouds and the lower the clouds the better your success is likely to be.

With a good guide and the right kind of weather you are likely to be back in Altair before 10 a.m.—with each hunter having the limit of geese in his game bag.

Beautify Texas Council To Convene In Dallas June 13

AUSTIN Governor Dolph Briscoe has announced that he will be on hand for the Sixth Annual Meeting of the Beautify Texas Council in Dallas next month to honor the six winning cities in the Governor's Community Achievement Awards competition.

The Governor will present large, handsome plaques to representatives from the six cities at the Governor's Awards Luncheon on June 14 at the Hilton Inn in Dallas.

The Annual Meeting, to which all Texans interested in beautification are cordially invited, will begin the previous day, Wednesday, June 13, with a headliner luncheon at the Hilton Inn. Henry B. King, President of the U. S. Brewers Association, Washington, D. C., will be the keynote speaker.

Scheduled between these two luncheons will be panel discussions, seminars, and "buttonhole the experts" coffee breaks designed to show those present how to organize community beautification programs and how to get the expert assistance that is available from state and local agencies and organizations.

The first 300 advance registrants for the Beautify Texas Council Annual Meeting will have an extra treat in store. They will be the guests of the meeting's host group, ABCD (A Beautiful, Clean Dallas), for a buffet dinner and a performance of "Oklahoma!" at the Dallas State Fair Music Hall.

Maurice Acers, President of the Beautify Texas Council, urges all interested persons to register early. "We expect registration to be particularly heavy this year because of the Wednesday evening activities planned by ABCD," he said, "and because the number of tickets is limited, we are advising everyone to sign up early."

All sessions of the meeting will be held at the Hilton Inn in Dallas. Registration fee is $12.00, which includes the two luncheons. Registration forms may be secured from Jack Jones, Secretary - Treasurer, Beautify Texas Council, P. O. Drawer CS, College Station, Texas 77840.

NASCAR Race To Continue June 10

COLLEGE STATION

One of the most heated battles in the history of NASCAR racing is expected to continue when the forty fastest qualifiers take the green flag for the start of the Alamo 500 at Texas World Speedway on Sunday, June 10th.

Cal Yarborough, Cecil Gordon, James Hylton and Richard Petty will be trying to overhaul Benny Parsons for the point lead in the Winston Cup standings.

The lead position in the points race this season has changed almost as frequently as has the lap lead in each of the fourteen Grand National events already run.

Parsons, who was riding along in fifth spot only a few weeks ago, took over the lead from Hylton with only one race remaining in the first leg of the rich Winston Cup payoff. Parsons carried his lead to the wire in the Nashville 420 to collect the $10,000 bonus for his reward.

The winner of the Alamo 500 will receive 375 points toward the national championship, in addition to over $13,000 in cash awards.

Practice for the 500 mile NASCAR sanctioned event is scheduled to begin next Thursday with the forty starting positions being determined on Friday and Saturday during time trials.

East Berliners Maintain High Living Standard

By Donald Armour
EAST BERLIN

Reuter -- East Berliners are more interested in pots, pans and polaroid lenses than in politics -- with their country having the highest standard of living of any Eastern European state.

Compared to the large cities of neighboring West Germany, the lights of this East German capital are dimmer, the clothes duller, the consumer goods relatively scarce, the salaries lower and the trains overcrowded.

But like West Germany, this country -- now gradually enjoying international diplomatic recognition since West Germany took a more conciliatory attitude to its existence -- has experienced its own "economic miracle."

East Berlin remains forcibly sealed off from West Berlin by a grim wall, watchdogs and East German Armed Guards. But the authorities are trying to offer ideology in more palatable doses to the critical younger generation. The monotonous red slogans are normally scarcely in sight any longer in central East Berlin.

The taste of life has been sweetened by slick new buildings, cafes where beat groups play, and smart clothes scarcely distinguishable from their western counterparts.

The reason for so much attention to consumer wares and the appearance of life here is partly because of the constant confrontation with the West to which East Germany is exposed.

Somehow, East Germany has to conform more to western standards in certain material things to maintain stability among the population.

Obviously the authorities are still unsure about the mood of the population that they have to keep the frontiers closed to prevent a recurrence of an exodus as used to occur before the Berlin Wall went up in 1961.

The chief spearhead of the western ideological threat is television, beamed in the German language from West Berlin, deep into East German territory.

A large percentage of East Berliners turn on the western channels every evening.

One barometer of the mood here is that voluble, homespun philosopher, the Berlin taxi-driver.

Others speak approvingly of Party Chief Erich Honecker as the man who is getting them more in life.

But East Berlin is still far from being a consumer's paradise. The East German equivalent of West Germany's world-beating Volkswagen, a two-stroke saloon, means in effective financial terms to a worker here roughly what a yacht would mean to an American worker.

The only fully automatic East German washing machine was suddenly withdrawn from the market this spring. Only couples with three or more children can in any case hope to get credit terms for household appliances.

Nevertheless, according to official statistics, for every 100 households there are 70 refrigerators, 63 washing machines, 75 television sets and 19.4 cars.

The average wage is about 250 dollars a month, although some western estimates say its effective overall purchasing power is about half this.

Wages differ widely. The manager of one of the big "kombinate" or nationwide industrial concerns can earn as much as 1,500 dollars a month, a doctor up to 750 dollars a month.

Today East Berlin's center is a place of glossy new buildings. The old part of town is being restored to its former Wilhelmine Prussian architectural splendour.

Away from the center, the picture varies between blocks of repetitive new apartment blocks and still scruffy, war-scarred side streets, pock-marked with bullet holes.

Veteran Enrollment Soaring

Veterans in school under the current G.I. Bill sent April enrollments soaring to a record 1.4 million -- the most in nearly 22 years, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Director at Waco.

Noting enrollments rose 12 percent over a year ago, Coker pointed out "the last time participation was higher was when 1,433 million veterans trained under the original G.I. Bill in December 1951."

Coker said that although April's 1.4 million enrollment was the highest under the current G.I. Bill, 1,367 million veterans trained in March, also a substantial number.

April statistics also reveal 14 percent increases above year ago levels in both on-job training, and education study below college level. On-job training stood at 110,000, up from 96,000, while below college training rose to 446,000 from 390,000.

Meanwhile, the number of veterans studying in college during April climbed 11 percent to 845,000 from 760,000 a year earlier. The April enrollment of 845,000 veterans also topped the 830,500 veterans who trained in March, it was noted.

ASCS News

ASCS said some suppliers have not been able to meet farm customers' needs fully. Officials said this is partly because independent and cooperative fuel producers and marketers have not been able to obtain enough supplies.

The current planting period is critical to farm production. Officials involved do follow up on shortage reports to make certain that corrective action is being taken.

USDA has been working with the Departments of Treasury and the Interior to encourage farm fuel conservation practices. Farmers can conserve fuel use by keeping tractors tuned and using minimum tillage practices, for example.

USDA officials also urged farmers not to buy more fuel than they need in the near future. Officials stressed that equitable distribution is necessary if all farmers are to have enough fuel.

Public hearing will be held June 11-13 in Washington by the Treasury Department to see how the voluntary crude oil and product allocation program is working. Persons wishing to supply written testimony should contact Kenneth L. Dupuy, U. S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. 202-40, on or before 5 p.m. June 7.

La Offshore Wells Purchased By Lone Star Producing Co.

DALLAS

A 37.5 per cent interest in an offshore Louisiana block, including two productive wells, has been purchased by Lone Star Producing Company, a subsidiary of Lone Star Gas Company, from Belco Petroleum Corp. from $975,000.

The wells were drilled to about 12,000 feet in the Pliocene sands on the block, Ship Shoal 149. The first well tested at a rate of 948 barrels of oil per day, and has been shut in.

The second well has been cased and has also been shut in pending further testing and completion operations. Logs indicate this well also to be productive.

Two other working interest owners in the property are Signal Oil & Gas Co., which is the operator, and Dow Chemical Co. The companies plan to immediately develop the property, using a jackup rig. The block is located some 35 miles offshore in 50 feet of water.

Hiway Dept. Warns Of Stolen Titles

AUSTIN

The Texas Highway Department today warned car dealers, banks, finance companies and the public to be aware of stolen negotiable automobile titles that probably will be used on stolen or converted vehicles.

One hundred thirty-four "original" blank negotiable titles with inventory numbers 16461082 through 16461215 printed on the back, were taken May 21 in an armed robbery from the Motor Vehicle Division district office in Houston.

In addition, 24 "duplicate original" blank non-negotiable titles with inventory numbers 6192990 through 6193013 printed on the front were taken in the same robbery.

Anyone spotting one of these titles should notify the local police and the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department immediately.
